

Those of you who did not come to this past Saturday's tour at Lorraine Shatilla's at Lac Brulé missed a truly great day. The weather was gorgeous, brilliant sun, and just below zero. The trail is groomed with light equipment so the tracks are soft, and the snow was really fast, perhaps because there had been a slight rain a few days earlier and the ice crystals mixed into the fresh powder. What ever it was the glide was great. I cannot remember such good snow in years!

Half of us did the full 22km circuit around the lake, about a 5 hour ski, and half, including me, elected to ski to the dam and back.

Thanks to Lorraine's whose hospitality was also first rate.
