

Viking Monday Tour Report for February 14, 2022

Hello tourers,

We've had some cold days this year, but yesterday was the coldest. We were 3 including Pierre Faucher who built the trail, Katherine and me. We skied east on the A.C. for 100m or so, turning right onto the yellow snowshoe trail and left on the Amicale NTT up and down for 1.7 kms. It was tough going and COLD. By far the coldest we've skied in this season. When we got to the Tour Monfort I decided to head back. Discretion the better part of Valor!

Pierre and Katherine continued left on the TourMonfort and right down the Amicale to J, along the Blue Ridge to E and left on the Red, Tour Montfort and A.C. to the Church. Pierre lent Katherine his skins and it was much easier for her. Afterwards we had our lunches at the church and Pierre gave me the new copy of his map, all GPS'ed, with Viking trail numbers, junction letters, and kms between junctions. This one will be much easier to use. I'll send it out as soon as I scan it.
